In Industrial Relations law, tracing the fate of Industrial Court Awards to determine if they have been affirmed, disturbed or reversed is of utmost importance. The task of doing so can prove to be both arduous and daunting.

“Appeals From Industrial Court 1968 – 2008”, is the first publication of its kind in Malaysia and provides Legal Practitioners, Human Resource Professionals and those with an interest in Industrial Relation laws, with a quick & concise account of the journey taken by Industrial Court Awards, once judicial review applications or appeals have been lodged against it in the higher courts by claimants or companies who feel that their interests have not been addressed or properly protected by the Industrial Court.

This book contains a list of approximately 400 awards or cases that have gone up to either the High Court, Court of Appeal or Federal Court, together with a brief statement of the decisions reached by the relevant Courts. The contents of the book provide information with a functional and practical approach. To further enhance user-friendliness, a comprehensive index by way of the name of parties and subject index has been provided.

CLJ is proud to be the sole content provider that head notes decisions of the Industrial Court Awards in Malaysia. Our heritage in legal reporting has permitted us to produce this landmark publication, which provides a handy reference and is an invaluable asset to the busy Human Resource Professional and Industrial Law Practitioner.
